OI, PAVEL.
EVEN IF WE PRETEND THAT SEA MONSTER REALLY EXISTS.
DO YOU THINK IT MAKES SENSE THAT ALL HIS CREW DIED AND ONLY THE CAPTAIN SURVIVED?

IT'S JUST A STORY. DO YOU REALLY NEED TO GET SO TECHNICAL EVERY TIME?

ALL STORIES HAVE A CAUSE AND A RESULT.
HE PROBABLY JUST RAN INTO A STORM AND MADE UP SOME STORY ABOUT IT.
BUT DOESN'T THAT HAVE THE SAME PROBLEM? IT'S STRANGE TO THINK HE'D BE THE ONLY ONE WHO SURVIVED A STORM.
AT LEAST MY VERSION IS MORE REALISTIC.

I LIKE GRANDPA'S STORY MORE!
IF BOTH STORIES ARE UNREALISTIC I LIKE THE COOLER ONE BETTER.

THE GOD OF SEA SOUNDS KIND.

THE MONSTER WITH SNAKES ATTACHED TO HEAD SOUNDS SCARY...
IT PROBABLY LOOKS LIKE AN OLD FART, LAFNER.

He always talked about the story about the Dark and the monster. He spent his last years completely in his cell already paranoid on the position of home. Daughter's over

But he never went out to see river again.
He already landed to the garden in his home and we resumed looking at the horizon.

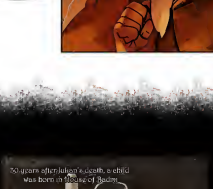
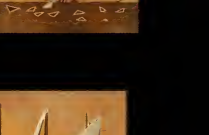
In his will, he stated that he wanted to have his body put onto a boat, but not to burn it.

But [illegible] from over the [illegible] when the church [illegible] all [illegible] [illegible], on the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Ever since, in Beglen, the funeral rite has been to send the body out on a boat, but not to set it on fire.



He was smarter and more curious than anybody in the family.



Ginzmo, who was schoolmaster from the time he was born, found his great-grandfather's navigation journal in the study one day.
He became obsessed with that strange story more and more.

Since then, Ginzmo turned his attention away from the trade routes to the North.

However, he ran into reality."

He thought it would never be Prince Minister of Hejian.
Ah, Genius, who was the only one who could succeed the position of Prime Minister.

To sum up the letter, it said
"I don't want to do a boring job like this. Make my younger brother do it or something."

I should say to a pirate cave in the eastern edge of Sheena island, to be precise.

As Hejian monopolized more and more of naval trade,
Sheena had quietly overlooked piracy.

Unlike their infamous reputations, they were actually kind to Sheena. So they had no choice but to loot and pillage.

The strangely dressed pirate with grey suits and jilegs drove over 200 merchant ships into fear over the course of a year.

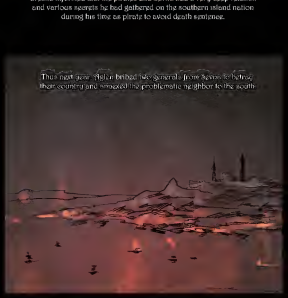
Well, even if war is inevitable, I have one reason, his younger brother was the executioner.

I suppose once infamous, always infamous.

His crimes were heavy and deserving of death, but due to his past achievements and the fact his younger brother was the Prime Minister made the sentencing a very difficult issue.

Grazma informed that the pirates and Seems had a very deep relation and various secrets he had gathered on the southern island nation during his time as pirate to avoid death sentence.



This port now under United Isle General from Seems to China, their country and smuggled into problematic neighbor to the south
